Deluge

Author's Notes:
bandfic_100 on livejournal, is a drabble community for stories of 100 words. Come on over. I wrote NIN and i thought i\'d share, however short.

Deluge

The water trembles in the glass, licks at the windows; he's sitting on the bed in a room filled with water, with Trent silent, face down, turning blue, slowly, like the rest of the room, in a deft, defying death.

There's nothing outside, thick, flowing from the sky like a brush made of hair.

When he opens his eyes, the rain is pearly, almost floating in the air, little splashes glittering in the sun, the glass is empty and Trent is sleeping in a bed next to his. His shirt is dry and Danny breathes slowly, trying to match his breath.
